MIKE KELLEY PROTESTS EDDIE SICKING DEAL

LOCAL PAIR SLIPS INTO SECOND PLACE IN I. B. A. TWO-MAN EVENT

LANDIS ASKED TO INVESTIGATE STAR'S STATUS

Minneapolis Claims Player Was Illegally Sent Out of League

By CHARLES JOHNSON

The Minneapolis baseball club has protested the transfer of Eddie Sicking, Indianapolis second baseman, to the Buffalo team of the International league, through the medium of the New York Giants. The protest has been made to Judge K. M. Landis, commissioner of baseball and he has already set the wheels in motion for a thorough investigation of the entire deal.

Illegally Transferred

The Minneapolis magnates claim that Sicking was illegally transferred to New York and then to Buffalo after Indianapolis had been unable to obtain waivers on the player in the American association, Milwaukee and Minneapolis held up waivers on the star second sacker and because of a league rule that the club lowest in the standings had first call on a player in such a case, the Millers should have had the player.

SICKING

When the Indianapolis owners, anxious to sell Sicking to the International league, discovered that they couldn't waive the player out of the league, they tried other methods. The player was "sold" to the New York Giants. Two days after the deal between these two teams, New York sent Sicking to Buffalo as part payment of Preese Thompson, obtained by the Giants last fall and recently turned over to the Philadelphia National league team.

George M. Belden made the official protest on the transfer of Sicking to Judge Landis in Chicago Monday after the association meeting. It's his claim and also Mike Kelley's that the Indianapolis club only used New York as a go between in the deal in order to get around asking waivers on Sicking. It's a rule in most minor leagues that no waivers are necessary when a player is being advanced to the major leagues.

Ever since Bruno Betzel was appointed as the successor to Denis Bush as manager of the Indianapolis team, that club realized that it could not keep Sicking as he had been in line with the job. The story is that the Hoosiers looked around for a spot to place the player where they could get more money than they could in the A.A. At the same time, they didn't care to have Sicking playing with some other club in the league.

When waivers were first asked on Sicking, Mike Kelley claimed the player. Waivers were immediately withdrawn. Then Minneapolis, knowing how anxious Indianapolis was to get George Fisher, offered to trade the outfielder for Sicking on an even-steven basis. Indianapolis refused.

Waivers Asked Again

For a second time, waivers were asked and again Minneapolis held him up. Indianapolis pleaded with Mike Kelley to relent, but he refused. Then came the deal with the Giants. That was completed on Feb. 1. A few days later, announcement was made in New York that Sicking had been sent to Buffalo in payment for Preese Thomson, now with the Phillies.

It is the claim of the Minneapolis club in its protest to Judge Landis that there was a conspiracy to get Sicking from Indianapolis to the International, another double A league, without going through the waiver process in view of the fact that Indianapolis never could have obtained waivers in the A.A.

Judge Landis investigated Minneapolis' correspondence Monday and immediately sent word to Indianapolis, New York and Buffalo to forward all their correspondence in the matter. It may be several weeks before Sicking's status is known.

Mike Kelley has been after Eddie Sicking ever since the first rumor came that he was on the market. Indianapolis wouldn't take Fisher for him nor would it permit the infielder to go by the waiver route.

Sicking has been in the American association for five seasons and always has been rated as one of the best if not the best second sacker in the league.

The St. Paul ball club today signed Fred Pigeras, a brother of George, to a 1927 contract. Bob Connery took him on recommendation of Fred's brother who pitched with the Saints last year. He is supposed to have a world of speed.

Wisconsin-Minnesota Swim Meet Called Off

The dual swimming meet between the Wisconsin and Minnesota university teams has been cancelled, it was announced today by Fred Leuhring, athletic director of the Gopher school, because of the lack of funds in the Badger swimming team budget. The meet was scheduled for Saturday and was billed as the last home competition of the year for the Gopher swimmers. Their next meet will be with Michigan at Ann Arbor early next month.

DELANEY FOOL PROOF PHYSICALLY, DAVIS WALSH FINDS

Lowdown on Sports

By CHARLES JOHNSON

NO matter what Judge Landis' final decision in Minneapolis' protest of the transfer of Eddie Sicking, second baseman, from Indianapolis to Buffalo under the guise of being sold to the major leagues may be, minor league clubs as well as those in the majors will know that there's no use trying to pull any clever little tricks on Judge Landis with the hope of getting away with them. In the days of the national commission, it was about the easiest thing in the world to manipulate anything that was presented. In those days, it would have been a very simple matter to get Sicking or any other player from Indianapolis to Buffalo or to a Class D league if necessary. There wouldn't be any kick back as the national commission wouldn't listen to it.

As we look at the protest of the Millers, we can see that Indianapolis magnates are going to get a lot of "heat" in this case before it is definitely settled. Judge Landis in his final decision may not turn over the player to Minneapolis where he belongs if he is to go to the International league, but he will see to it that there isn't a repetition of such tactics in the minors or majors.

Eddie Sicking would go a long way toward making the Minneapolis ball club look more formidable than it is right now. He's a corking good second baseman, one of the best the league has had in many years. He hasn't a whole lot of life, but he can go get "them dere baseballs," as Eddie Herr would opine about a great fielder. He's a pretty fair hitter, smart in baseball ways and none better in the minors as a guardian of the keystone sack.

The mess that the Smith family (owners of the Indianapolis ball club) has made in this Sicking deal leads us to believe that Denis Bush will be missed on that ball club more than Hoosier scribes and fans will let on. Denis Bush never permitted his bosses to be led into such a mess and probably never would have handled the Sicking matter in such a small-minded way.

This Sicking deal may be so well covered up that it may stand. New York can argue that it owed Buffalo a ball player in the worst way. It was willing to spend $10,000 or even $15,000 to get Sicking for Buffalo. Naturally it wouldn't have been fair to Indianapolis to part with a player for $3,000 that it could get $10,000 or more for on the open market. However, that's not the point. Indianapolis apparently tried to pull a fast one to get Sicking out of the league. Knowing how Judge Landis has handled similar matters in the past, we are inclined to believe that the Indianapolis club will have a little trouble getting by with this deal.

Jimmy Vasco, the Boston bantamweight, who took Fidel La Barba to a very nasty licking Monday night, needs a lot of educating. Jimmy agreed to fight La Barba for nothing when the promoters threatened to call off the show because of bad weather. Jimmy was never born to be a fighter if he follows these tactics.

IN view of the fact that Dr. Clarence W. Spears has decided to coach Minnesota's football team for one more year at least, it is only well that we get better acquainted with him. Yesterday, we published some "real inside stuff" about him from Hughey Fullerton from the Liberty magazine. We have done more investigating on this Spears person and we have learned some more startling facts.

This time, George Trevor, picking four all-time Dartmouth football teams, provides us with the information which we believe only fair to pass on to the doctor's many admirers as further evidence why he should not be permitted to get away from Minnesota at any time.

Trevor has this to say about the Minnesota coach:

"'Doc' Spears was beyond any shadow of a doubt the greatest football player who ever played here. Certainly Spears was the greatest offensive guard and defensive tackle. 'Doc' Spears was the antithesis in build of the rangy, raw-boned type usually considered ideal for a forward. 'Doc' Spears was definitive of being as broad as he was long. Indeed he actually looked fat and roly poly, yet his strength was prodigious and his speed was astounding. As remarkable happens with men of rotund build, Spears had extraordinary agility, which, coupled with his inordinate strength, tremendous bulk and uncanny instinct for diagnosing plays, made him a single handed stone wall for any offensive attempts between tackle and center and disrupt all efforts outside of tackle.

"Spears rates with the great line men of all time—Hardwinger, Peacock, Hare, Glass, Fish, Newell, Henry, West, Benbrook and others. Spears was a play wrecker, who filled so interference wholesomely rather than boiling through it, one of the few men who could come out of the line laterally on defense and smash a player on the other side. Spears weighed ten pounds, yet was only five feet, eight inches tall. Besides an unapproachable expertness at the mechanics of the game, his mental attitude was superb. In the most desperate games there was an expression on Spears' face which one associated with the invincible incentives of the swashbuckling later. A movie director would hang and that his registration was perfect for a hero of parry and thrust, to that he radiated cool confidence in his mastery of the situation while a hotly melee of the fey of combat water left his cherubic face. Now you know all that we know of the doctor.

FOR a heavyweight match that has nothing at stake more than a chance to keep on fighting in the big money, the Delaney-Maloney fracas in New York has stirred up more interest than any other match since the Tunney-Dempsey siesta at Philadelphia last September.

It's not Maloney so much as Delaney who is stirring up the wolves. Jack is a very colorful fighter. He has been one of the best drawing cards Tex Rickard has ever had. Maloney beat Persson and they have taken him seriously ever since.

Because of Delaney's work in the light heavyweight ranks, he is being made a favorite in some quarters to win the elimination match Friday night. This condition can be attributed to the fact that Jack has a better name with the public, has shown a powerful punch and is a pretty hard man to beat.

Davis Walsh, in his most interesting way, threw a bombshell into the Maloney camp yesterday with his announcement that Jim is far from being in good condition. In the ring, Maloney has the same deceiving appearances as Bartley Madden. He's naturally fat around the waist line and the mere sight of him in training brings him into disfavor. But it is because he's badly underrated in training that makes him look so good in the ring.

Jack Delaney is one of the best champions in the game today, but there is a serious question whether he can give away 5 pounds and still beat Maloney. That weight makes a big difference. It may be a deciding factor in the outcome of Friday's clash. Rickard probably is hoping that Delaney will win for he's the big drawing card in New York now and not Maloney.

With another break or two, the Calhoun Beach club would be leading the parade in the five-man event of the I.B.A. A big crowd pulled hard for the local boys last night, but not quite hard enough.

Well, the ball players are starting south already. It won't be long before they'll go south to start training as soon as the season ends.

Pyle Quits Pro Tennis When Stars Boost Price

New York, Feb. 16.—Demands of Mlle. Suzanne Lenglen and other members of his troupe for more pay was advanced today as the reason for the withdrawal of Promoter C. C. Pyle from the field of professional tennis.

The withdrawal of Pyle, who is on the Pacific coast, was announced here by William C. Pickens, his eastern representative. Pickens said that Pyle would not undertake to manage any future tours unless assured that financial success would result and that other promoters would not bid for the services of the players.

Mlle. Lenglen is negotiating with other promoters, according to Pickens. She and Paul Feret will sail for France on Saturday. Suzanne Lenglen plans to go to Florida. Mary Browne is in Cleveland and Harvey Snodgrass, has left for California. The tour ended in Providence on Monday.

Bottomley Rejects New Offer From Cardinals

St. Louis, Feb. 16.—Jim Bottomley refuses to yield ground in his fight for an increased salary as first baseman for the St. Louis Cardinals and today rejected the latest offer tendered by the club. He returned the contract unsigned. Flint Rhem and Jess Haines, pitchers, are also holdouts.

Milwaukee Bowler Tops All-Events With 1,940

Racine, Wis., Feb. 26.—Walter Rollo of the Flankington Hotel team of Milwaukee today is leading the all-events and is second in the singles of the state bowling tournament here. His score is 1,940. He scored 723 in the singles, 419 in the doubles and 598 in the all-events.

CRITIC SEES FRIDAY'S BOUT AS STANDOFF

175-Pounder Shows Perfect Condition in Final Gym Workout

By DAVIS J. WALSH

International News Service Sports Editor

Bridgeport, Conn., Feb. 16.—Bronzed, lean, beautifully muscled and as clear eyed as a figure in a stained glass window, Jack Delaney today was 100 per cent athlete as he worked out in a setting that had much of the atmosphere usually associated with London prize ring days. The physical Delaney seemed to be fool-proof.

Calls It Standoff

Therefore, Friday night's battle of the great indoors might be regarded as a stand-off in some respects. Delaney's opponent would seem to be far better than Jimmy Maloney's and that will help in spite of the 10-round distance. But Maloney has the edge in weight and strength and that will enable Delaney can back and wing his way out of close quarters.

Speaking of quarters, Delaney's are and yet in an old left—musty, dusty and so thronged with merry villagers that the writer, in order to "report" the thing in a thoroughly conscientious manner, was forced to mount a chest exercizer on the wall. A photograph of an old time stand-up fighter was on the far wall, taking dubious issue with an old painting of a demi-nude. On the latter's opposite flank was a placard that has yellowed three in peace since the days when men were hardy.

It proved this by announcing that hot roast beef sandwiches could be purchased for ten cents. It didn't say when.

They said Delaney looked twice the man he did on Monday when he was worried about his wife's illness, which has impaired considerably. As to that, it was my impression that Delaney didn't try to show much today.

He worked a lot with a left jab but that is not his game at all and the punch often was clumsy, at least in the bout with George Ward. The latter is a fast, tough welterweight and when he rushed Delaney, which was nearly all the time, the latter's old stalking up complex asserted itself. He uses this in the ring to jockey his man into the famous right cross but Delaney refrained from trying it on Ward.

The addicts were highly amused by Delaney's head slipping tactics with Jack Warren, a negro, and Jack gave every evidence that the amusement he afforded was not altogether distasteful to him. The young man is a born actor.

With one Eddie Clark, brother of Jeff, the Joplin ghost, so called because a ghost is supposed to be white, Delaney decided to put in several rounds of mauling and wrestling. Just why this was the procedure I cannot say for Clark doesn't weigh within 10 pounds of the figure Maloney is expected to smile.

There are, in fact, no heavy men in sight, bearing out the general impression that Delaney will shoot his all on speed.

It may be, too, that the light heavyweight champion, being a bit fragile, doesn't care to take any chances on getting softened before the fight. However, a little work with a heavyweight like Maloney's may might have given him an advance idea of what Friday night will be all about.

However, many a good man is beginning to realize that no one knows too much about it. One man has condition and speed; the other weight and strength. Both are alleged to have certain chins. The rungless stepladder goes to the man who can call the turn and know exactly why he did it.

MUNN HERE FOR ROMANO MATCH

Heavyweight None Worse After Hard Mat Battle in Chicago

Wayne (Big) Munn will arrive in Minneapolis today from Chicago for his wrestling match with Mike Romano, noted Italian heavyweight, at the Gayety theater Thursday night. Munn was defeated by Joe Malcewicz of Utica, N. Y., in a contest at Chicago Monday night, the eastern challenger being forced to go three falls in order to win from the giant Nebraskan.

Malcewicz bears the distinction of being the wrestler that Champion Joe Stecher refused to meet at Boston a year ago and later defeated Marin Plestina for the title. Plestina is a fine grappler to gain a fall on the giant Jugo-Slav in 12 years, hence Munn last night was in the way of prestige because of Monday's defeat.

Romano appeared on the same card with Munn and Malcewicz and defeated Leon Labiola of Boston in a one-fall match.

The Munn-Romano match will be a duel between the two giantess slam I hold and the Italian's headlock. Romano uses the headlock almost as effectively as Strangler Lewis. Munn depends upon the slam hold to win the majority of his bouts, the former world's champion hurling his opponents to the mat with such force that they are usually rendered unconscious. The bout Thursday night will be to a finish, best two in three falls.

The Life Story of FITZSIMMONS

NO AFTER EFFECTS EXCEPT AP PETITE

William Muldoon, now a member of the New York boxing commission, came up Bob's dressing room and visit with us to the Nevada state penitentiary, which was on the way to the training camp. Here Bob had dressed and took a bath in the hot mineral springs. Muldoon made a careful examination of the new champion's body. Aside from the split lip, which antedated the fight by two weeks, and a red spot over his left kidney, where he had taken a few punches, there was no evidence that he had been in a prize ring.

Muldoon was amazed at Bob's physical condition. That afternoon about two hours after the fight, on the pricker scales, Bob weighed 157 pounds plus. I remarked at the time:

"I estimate you 56 pounds." my weight then being 207.

"And I am still a middleweight, said he.

Lip is Fixed Up

About 2:30 we assembled at the cafe for dinner and received the public. Dr. S. L. Lee, who is still living in Carson City, came down to the camp and took two stitches in Bob's lower lip.

The Chinese cook spread himself for dinner, which concluded with a large platter of pork chops for dessert. At that banquet all restraint was cast to the winds and that time was the dividend. Hickey, Recker, and Stelzner, still under the influence of a semi-dee, broke the bonds of reserve. When the repast was over, every man present, including the new champion, was in the heavyweight class.

So much for Nevada and the seventeenth of March, 1897. The next day, as we drove down the main street on the way to the depot, Fitzsimmons told me that his net profit out of the entire affair was $15,000. Page Mr. Dempsey, Mr. Firpo, Mr. Gibbons, Mr. Leonard, and others whose "bit" from a single fight 25 years afterward ranged from $100,000 to three quarters of a million.

On March 18, 1897, at 2:35 p.m., the day after Fitzsimmons knocked out Corbett, we returned out of the Carson depot with the new champion on board. At Reno the cowboy whom we had met at Carson touch, and to whom Bob had given an order on Dan Stevens, came into the car to offer his congratulations. He had succeeded in getting a $100 bet down at 2 to 1 and was making quite a commotion.

"For the balance of your life, Fitz, every time you step into the ring, I'm going to bet on you and run this show string up to a fortune. And when you lose a fight I'm going to quit."

That cow puncher did not gather much money on the future. In July, 1899, Jim Jeffries knocked Fitz out at Coney Island.

Corbett Ducks Out

Corbett had gone down to Prince Orloff's ranch in the foothills of the Sierra Nevadas under cover of darkness, with no fanfare at the depot. The shock of the fallen crown rocked California to its foundations, and a large delegation of business men journeyed from week to week to Reno to get back to their various occupations and habitats. Nevertheless, when Bob turned up in San Francisco on the nineteenth of March his reception was plenty cordial.

Shortly thereafter the transcontinental triumphal tour from Reno to Reno opened upon delivering a rear platform speech in every town of a population of over 1,000. He wanted a new speech every time—one fitted to the locality. I wrote no less than 20 ballyhoos of from 200 to 500 words in length. Bob had lost none of the mental nimbleness that enabled him to memorize a couple of dozen collects to win a prayer book in Tinnevelly, New Zealand. He could memorize one of those short speeches in 10 minutes.

St. Bridgets, St. Hedwigs Win in Parochial League

The St. Bridgets basketball team scored the combined Annunciation and Holy Cross teams by a single point last night to win the Parochial league. The score was 25 to 24 and both teams put up a hot struggle. In the other game last night, the St. Hedwigs buried the St. Philips quint under a 39 to 15 score in a one-sided game. Luherda was the outstanding star of the game, caging 20 points for the winners.

Boston, Feb. 16.—The advance guard of the Boston Braves today packed up ready to leave tonight for spring training at St. Petersburg, Fla. The "gang" will consist of "Pop" Cunningham, secretary, Dick Rudolph, coach, Foster Edwards, former Dartmouth pitcher, Frank Hogan, candidate for catcher, "Jim" James Cooney, trainer, and newspaper men. Joe Genewich, Bunny Hearn and John Watts will join the party in New York.

Jack Delaney 'Tuning Up'

Jack Delaney's sparring partners vehemently assure the world that if he fights against Jimmy Maloney at the new Madison Square Garden in New York Feb. 18 as he fights against them in training, then no one on earth will stand up before him for long. Since similar statements are made about Maloney camp, all indications point toward a "soon" of a fight. Here's Delaney in a training bout with Jack Warren, a Bibo-limbed, dusky gentleman.

LaFayette, Ind., Feb. 16.—The western conference basketball hcamionship was out of the bag today, following Michigan's upset here last night at the hands of Purdue. The score was 37 to 32.

With the title practically tucked away, the Wolverines suffered their first defeat of the season. This was enough to hurl them back into a tie for first place with Wisconsin and Purdue. Each of these three teams has now won five games and lost one.

Michigan outplayed the Boilermakers all through the first half, which ended 22 to 16 for the Wolverines. At one time in this period Michigan led, 18 to 7.

But in the second half, "Cotton" Nixon, Purdue star forward, broke loose and started a scoring orgy with a field goal. Bob Wilson sank a couple from long range and tied the count. Wilso and Wheeler then alternated at looping field goals, and with an occasional shot from some of their team mates, managed to hold the lead until the final gong.

Harrigan and Oosterhban played stellar roles for the vanquished Wolverines.

REISELT LOSES TO KIECKHEFER

Chicago, Feb. 16.—Augie Kieckhefer of Chicago today is the new world three-cushion billiards champion, having defeated Otto Reiselt of Philadelphia in a sensational match last night, 50 to 29. Reiselt today was to post a $250 forfeit to hold his challenge for a return title match with Kieckhefer here within 60 days.

Last night's match went 31 innings and took but 54 minutes play. Reiselt and Kieckhefer came through the round robin tournament with seven victories and one defeat each, playing off the tie for the title last night.

Reiselt pranced the new champion in his gamesome and brilliant playing and declared he was anxious to meet him again.

The $100 prize for the best game of the tournament went to Kieckhefer for his victory tonight, and Reiselt also won a $100 prize, getting the high run of the tournament, 18.

Traffic Club Five Scores 16th Consecutive Victory

The Minneapolis Traffic club basketball team hung up its sixteenth consecutive victory of the season last night with a one-point triumph over the Penn club in the City league. The score was 32 to 31, and Meyer of the winners scored 24 of his team's points. The game was played at the Unity house.

SID SWANSON, CARL HEMPEL TURN IN 1,232

J. Johnson Takes Tenth Position in Singles With 635 Total

Charley Wolfe and Leo Mueller turned in the best double total on the 11 a.m. shift with 1,188. Gordon and Gustafson shot 1,181 on the same shift.

By JOHN S. GETCHELL

Another Minneapolis double team asserted itself of a pretty fair chunk of the two-man money in the International Bowling association's tournament at the Recreation alleys today when Sid Swanson and Carl Hempel shot 1,232 to take second place.

Almost Take Lead

But for an ordinary game of 168 in Swanson's last game, this pair would have gone into the lead. Swanson, after starting with the magnificent counts of 218 and 227, ran into some splits in the last try and dropped to 168. His partner shot 191, 222 and 211.

Another Minneapolis man, John Johnson, went into tenth place in the singles on the 10 a.m. shift, when he shot 635 through game counts of 212, 199 and 224. Al Brandt, also of this city, tied for eleventh with 186, 193 and 256 for a 635 total. M. C. Nyberg, on the same shift, finished with 254, but only got a 593 total.

Foshays On Tonight

The W. H. Foshay team, leaders of the Recreation league and contenders one of the best pin teams in this city, will take the alleys tonight in the five men event, being scheduled to roll on the second shift.

The Foshays have been getting some mighty large totals on the Recreation alleys so far this year and with the big advantage of knowing the alleys their work will be patched with a great deal of interest.

Many of the other local pin teams from the Pioneer, City, East Side Straightaway and Transportation league are scheduled to roll tonight. The Nelson Master Roofs of the City league are on the first shift along with the Jersey Ice Cream team of the Recreation league. Some of the other well known teams include the Borich Furniture, Ingersland Lumber, Sox Mountaineers, Pioneer Limiteds, Alva Patterns, Court Chambers and Olson Shoes. Two Rochester and one St. Cloud teams are on the same shift.

The Calhoun Beach club bowlers went into third place in the five-men event last night when it turned in a 2,839 total with game scores of 950, 948 and 939. Carl Dech was the big pin tumbler for the Calhoun, when he rolled 215, 201, 234.

The Wrigley Lunch quint, another team of local bowlers, went into fourth place on the first shift when they turned in a 2,846 total, having 956, 1,012 and 968. The Fugeron Meats rolled a 2,842 total to land in eighth place, while the Andrews Hotel shooters were tenth with a 2,837 total.

The Charter Gillman bowlers of St. Paul landed in fifth place when they turned in a 2,864 total. Their score, 956, 917, 991. The L. W. Jordan Dodge team failed to land among the first ten when they rolled 2,817. The Dodge team leads the St. Paul City league.

There were few changes in the doubles and singles play during the day with Al Krouse and Jess Stasch rolling into second place in the doubles when they dropped 1,220 pins. H. Schult and H. Peltier of St. Paul went into eighth place with a 1,194 total. Schult and Peltier went into the third game working on 426 but they found the going tough in the third game.

Bill Kites and Howard Langhenry went into tenth place with an 1,184 total. F. Voels and J. Raine had an 1,174 total, good for thirteenth place.

M. J. Schreiner of St. Paul turned in two good scores in the last two games having 193 to start with, then shooting 233 and 223 for a 649 total to land in seventh place, while J. Kuester of St. Paul went into tenth place with a 633 total. G. Anderson of St. Paul started with 158 but came back strong with scores of 227 and 246 for a 621 total.
