

ANNOUNCE PLAYERS RESERVED BY CLUBS

National League List Made Public—Giants Have 35, Including Eddie Sicking.

The list of players reserved by the Giants for next season includes the name of Eddie Sicking, the infielder who was loaned to the Phillies last season when that club was in bad straits. Manager McGraw understood at the time that he was letting Sicking go to the Phillies for a limited time, but when he tried to get him back President Baker refused to return him. When the season was over Philadelphia turned the player back to New York.

The reserved list of all the players in the National League was given out by President Heydler yesterday. New York has thirty-five players under reserve, while two players, Perritt and Tesreau, are on the voluntary retired list. Among the youngsters McGraw has on his list are H. E. Bates, E. J. Bowen, Virgil Barnes, a brother of Jess Barnes; Jim Cooney, Wilbert Hubbell, Paul Johnson, Bob Kinsella, Sidney Ross, Wilfred Ryan, Sterling Stryker, Colonel Snover, and Arnold Statz.

There are thirty-six players on Brooklyn's reserved list. Among the new players are Lafayette Henlon, Paul Beyers, George Mohart, Joe Naege, Bernie Nels, John Sheehan, and J. W. Taylor.

The champion Cincinnati Reds have twenty-nine players on the reserved list and three on the voluntary retired list. Those on the retired list are Tom Romanach, Bill Loudon, and Jimmy Esmond.
